Dear,

I'm Mattia Meneghin, a curious, extroverted and very ambitious guy. I like to set many goals and reach them as well as possible. I graduated in Telecommunication and computer science in 2018 from ITIS Max Planck, in Villorba(TV) .

My biggest passion is sports, in particular fitness and football. After 14 years of playing due to an injury, I had to reject the dream of every child, to become a footballer. Luckily thanks to this bad event, I was able to set further goals, one of those was to graduate (still on-going nowadays).

Once I graduated in high school and as soon as I started my recovery therapies after the surgery, I began to work for Telebit, a telecommunication company in Dosson di Casier (TV). Here I learned a lot of new theoretical and practical concepts, thanks to the IT team that I worked with. They contributed to my growth and to make me able to complete all my tasks alone, namely the virtual machines management, in particular mail servers (Microsoft Exchange and Zimbra), printer servers, monitoring servers (Zabbix), active directory and ACL.

Furthermore there was another important task, the providing of company mobiles and notebooks for the employees. The decision of which ones to choose and about the configuration was completely up to me, obviously in agreement with their area manager. Many small responsibilities that stimulated me and made me feel part of the team, essential feeling in order to work as well as possible.

An extraordinary place to work in, but due to my personality I felt too much oppressed by my limits: I sometimes suffered from my inferiority and didn't feel adequately prepared for the tasks assigned to me.

Despite the understanding of the team, I needed new challenges, so in August 2019 I resigned to enroll at the University of Trento, in particular the course of Computer, electronic and communication engineering.

In September 2019 I started lessons, but shortly after a bad event stopped me for a month, then the Covid-19 pandemic broke out: the first year was more complicated than expected.

In August 2020 I decided to accept the position offered to me in MediaWorld, since it was really close to my house and the flexibility of the working hours, it was comfy to get a salary in order to contribute to pay for all my studies. The job was apparently easy: try to understand the needs of the customers, because they often don't even know them and the amount they are willing to spend for those. Another important aspect was the education and the way they treated me, sometimes it was really hard to be kind. From this experience I have drawn more ethical than technical values, now I pay more attention to the greeting and to always be respectful

In December 2021 I didn't want to renew the contract in order to be able to devote myself exclusively to studying and complete my degree so I moved to Trento in order to focus just on my priorities. I went on with my academic career achieving some exams and doing the internship during March and April thanks to Monokee, a company in Padova. Here my task was to develop TypeScript API in order to exploit the automations already existing in their systems for the WireGuard VPN service.

The most recent experience is in March 2024 in Altitude, they offered me the possibility to be part of an academy about the Microsoft CRM (Dynamics365) and the develop of PowerApps in C# using .NET. We treated even Azure cloud computing concepts.

Best regards,

Meneghin Mattia
